

PREVIEW_ John Schoonbee - Presentation (Breckenridge 2017) 1

John Schoonbee: So certainly as an outsider to America my view is that politicians tend to repeat the same thing over and over and over again. And if you do that, people end up believing it, right?

And it's not just in the current meilleur, it's been I think like that for decades, that's my impression. And of course for 40 years we've been told, like we've heard from Zoe, that fat is bad. Fat is bad. And they even find myself as a complete convert, right?

You sit with three or four fried eggs, lots of oil and you get this little part of meat, that's going... Really? I mean come on, do you have it too? So if we feel that way, then it's really, really tough. And I struggle, I've got colleagues who I respect hugely, they're very curious, they're very bright, but they just cannot get this.